

Call for Papers – 25th annual conference

Dates: 21-05-2020 to 22-05-2020

City: Barcelona

Markets, Organizations, and Votes in Economics (MOVE) is happy to host the 25th Coalition Theory Network Conference on Thursday 21– Friday 22 May 2020 at Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona's downtown campus.

The Coalition Theory Network (CTN) is an association of nine high-level scientific institutions whose aim is the advancement and diffusion of research in the area of network theory and coalition formation.

This year's conference will be organized around three main research topics: Coalition Formation, Matching, and Networks. These topics touch on many different aspects of social and economic systems, such as the management of public goods, the formation of collaborations and political parties, the process of social integration, information diffusion and individual incentives, the assignment of doctors to hospitals or children to schools, and so on. Both applied and theoretical work on these broad topics is encouraged.

The keynote speakers will be:

Prof. Matt Elliott (University of Cambridge)

Prof. María Montero (University of Nottingham)

Prof. Utku Ünver (Boston College)
